Risk Control's Impact on Total Cost of Risk Auto Dealerships

The Brown & Brown Risk Control team understands the importance of our dealership customers' dedication to establishing a highly sought-after place of employment that provides superior customer service. We aim to help you significantly reduce your organization's total cost of risk, working with you to foster a culture of health, safety and security. This collaboration helps promote a healthier and more satisfied workforce and drive improvements in service quality and productivity.

Our Key Strategies

Data Integrity: Validate the integrity of loss data trends to develop a strategic road map for planning future safety initiatives.

Operational Insight: Systematically analyze your overall operations, exposures and controls, focusing on your organization's unique needs.

Customer-focused: We work with our customers at each level of the organization to help build, support and sustain an improved safety culture.
